GIPF GROWS PENSION BENEFITS WITH INVESTMENT INTO GREEN CRISP FARMING.

Food security has become an essential need for Namibia. It is for this reason that the Government Institutions Pension Fund (GIPF) is announcing one of its investments in the agri-business sector. Green Crisp Farming which produces lettuce, cucumbers and peppers for local and international consumption, received over 61 million through the GIPF's unlisted investment portfolio.

Green Crisp Farming employs 140 employees, of which 130 are females. "We are proud to contribute to families in Namibia through the nurturing hands of their mothers. Green Crisp Farming is not only feeding families in Namibia, but countries such as South Africa are also enjoying the high-quality production of these vegetables." said David Nuyoma, Chief Executive Officer, GIPF.

Green Crisp Farming is a farm situated 40 kilometers outside Okahandja. These salad bowl ingredients are now available in your nearest supermarket and are identified by a red round label written under the banner of Fresh-mark. "Do your part in contributing to the economy by buying these local produces, which are nurtured with love for you", concluded Nuyoma.
